Free martial arts classes

The Free Spirit Martial Arts Academy is sponsoring a one-time program called Operation Reach Out that offers free classes to all between the ages of 8 and 80 at the West Madison Memorial Center, 903 West Washington St., Madison.

Persons under the age of 18 should have a parent present at the time of enrollment, which starts at 3 p.m. Jan. 27; classes will begin the same day.

For further information or to pre-register, persons may contact Antonio Jackson, 452-5449 or 877-4722 or 451-9832.

Faculty to present recital

Tenor Ronald Abraham, an assistant professor of music, and pianist Linda Perry, an associate professor of music, will present works of Schumann, Liszt and Strauss in recital on Friday, Jan. 24, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Both are members of the SIUE music faculty.

The recital, scheduled at 7:30 p.m. in the Lovejoy Library auditorium, will feature "Liederkreis, Op. 39," a song cycle of Robert Schumann; four songs on the poetry of Victor Hugo by Franz Liszt; and six songs of Richard Strauss.

Audubon meeting Monday

The Southwestern Illinois Audubon Society will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the St. John's Methodist Church on St. Louis Street in Edwardsville.

Dr. Jamie Thomerson, a biologist at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will show the film, "Population Explosion," about penguins.

The winter bird count will be discussed as well as unusual birds at feeders this winter.

For more information, persons may call Ruth Jensen at 351-1352.

Inside

Friday night was a good one for GCHS sports. The Warrior basketball team blasted East St. Louis 81-47 as Drake Marshall scored 30 points; the Lady Warriors edged Collinsville 74-70 in overtime at Memorial Gym behind Karen Sykes' 23 points; and the wrestling team stayed unbeaten (13-0) with a 57-9 win at Wood River.

Granite City Street Superintendent William Warfield said a proposed $1,200 annual pay increase for his office "is far too much." He said a $50 per month increase in his $650 monthly salary would be adequate. On Feb. 27 the council approved a $150 per month raise.

Health care top local concern

Costello answers seniors' questions

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-21st District, faced about 100 senior citizens Thursday at the Granite City Township Hall and said he would try to answer any question on any subject.

Health care dominated the discussion. The first question of the day was, "Are these meetings really for the people or are they just politics?"

Costello admitted that many congressmen never hold town meetings and that the town meetings on health care now taking place nationwide are a new thing in some congressional districts.

But Costello said he had held hundreds of town meetings since becoming a congressman and will continue to hold them.

"If the American people don't demand change, the American people aren't going to get change," he said.

By talking to thousands of people in my district, I have found the number one concern is 'Will I have a job tomorrow?' and number two is 'If I don't have a job, how will I get health care?'

"From talking to people, I believe national health care is one of the top three issues in my district."

The majority of the questions after that concerned a health care plan. Costello said he believes some sort of national health care plan will be approved this session.

"A society that cannot provide basic services for its citizens, and health care is one of the most basic, will not last very long," Costello said. "It is important that we have a medical system that includes all Americans."

It is important, however, Costello said, that Congress take the time and effort to develop a good national health care plan because "we will have to live with whatever it is for many years."

Costello said that, when looking at a national plan, it is important that the people keep their right to choose their doctor and hospital. He also said the plan must include dental care.

Right now, Costello said, 25 cents of every dollar spent for health care goes to doing paperwork. He said the national plan must include paperwork. (See COSTELLO, Page 10A)

Three health plans debated

By Martin Richter
Staff writer

About 250 people turned up at the American Legion Hall in Collinsville on Tuesday for a forum on national health care.

The forum, which featured U.S. Rep. Richard J. Durbin, D-Illinois, and House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Missouri, coincided with meetings held across the United States by more than 200 Democratic members of Congress.

Sharing the podium with Durbin and Gephardt were Dr. George Wilkins, an Edwardsville pediatrician, and Charles Mohr, president of the Greater Madison County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO.

The congressmen said they planned to use comments from this meeting and others across the country to build a consensus on how to deal with the country's health care crisis.

They noted that the United States is the only industrialized country, besides South Africa, that does not have some sort of national health care system.

They discussed three different proposals for national health care.

But while those attending the meeting made it abundantly clear that they were angered by the rising cost of health care, many said they would have to have more information about the plans. (See CARE, Page 10A)

Plan minimizes school cuts

SPRINGFIELD — Welfare checks won't be reduced and state aid for schools won't be cut as severely under a compromise budget plan.

Lawmakers will return to the capital Tuesday to vote on the agreement forged between Gov. Jim Edgar and legislative leaders Thursday.

The plan by Democratic leaders includes proposals to take $29 million away from the state road fund for the next five months, to put $35 million from various special funds into the general fund, for a $13 million savings from refinancing bonds and for $10 million in new cuts for smaller agencies.

Those revenue sources permitted restoring $87 million in cuts that Edgar originally proposed under a 3 percent reduction plan to slash the budget by $350 million. Most of the restoration would be for elementary and high schools and for Public Aid programs.

The package combines about $280 million in spending cuts and $500 million in borrowing to pay overdue bills.

The $280 million includes cuts of 4 percent to 5 percent for some agencies.

State universities, for example, including Southern Illinois University. (See BOARD, Page 10A)

2nd mistrial in child porn case

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

A slip of the prosecutor's tongue caused a Madison County judge to declare a mistrial for the second time in a child pornography case against a Granite City man.

Associate Judge J. Lawrence Keshner declared a mistrial Friday in the case against Timothy Carney, 37.

Keshner said Assistant State's Attorney Craig Jensen's reference to a previous jury while cross-examining Carney on Thursday prejudiced the jury.

It was an inadvertent mistake made in the heat of battle, Keshner said. "But I firmly believe it prejudiced the jury."

Keshner said he had cautioned Jensen once, out of the earshot of the jury, and Jensen made the reference a second time.

"There are just certain things you don't do," Keshner said. "You have to watch the use of the word 'insurance' in personal injury cases and

The future for Madison schools — now facing even more state education budget cuts — looks bleak, said Superintendent Dan Kostencki at Thursday night's board meeting.

Kostencki said that although he could not predict the future of Madison schools' status on the state's financial watch list, he said he thought it would be a "pretty depressing picture."

"I have a feeling a lot of other districts are going to join us on that list," Kostencki said. "We have been doing what we can to keep expenses down, but there's only so much we can cut without having chaos."

Lottery tax plan may face an uphill battle

By Christopher Knight
Staff writer

SPRINGFIELD — A Granite City Council plan to tax lottery sales could do poorly if considered by the Legislature, because it appears to cut money earmarked for education.

The lottery-tax plan, proposed by Granite City Alderman Casmer Skubish, would tax local lottery sales 5 percent, collecting an estimated $600,000 yearly for city coffers.

The tax wouldn't raise the $1 price of tickets.

Skubish presented his tax proposal to the Illinois Municipal League last year, saying cities deserve a cut of lottery profits.

The Municipal League voted in favor of placing Skubish's idea on its legislative priority list, and it will ask legislators this session to draft a bill similar to his plan.

The League, however, is unsure of whether legislators will immediately accept the plan, because it could reduce lottery profits. State law requires all lottery revenue to go toward education.

"It is definitely a concept where the work will be cut out

Casmer Skubish
... plan may be fought for us," said Roger Huebner, director of the legislative program of the Municipal League, "especially if (legislators) feel it will deprive education of money."

"If the bill drafted reduces money going to education, then I'm sure educators will be angry," Huebner said.

Huebner wasn't sure how the initial legislative proposal will

BAC plans study of valuations

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

Belleville Area College plans to investigate requests by 13 area property owners who are seeking reductions in their assessments.

At BAC's board meeting Wednesday night, the trustees voted to have the college's attorney, Bob Becker, intervene on behalf of the college at real estate assessment hearings before the appropriate county boards of review and the State Board of Review.

Becker will be attending the hearings to see if the assessed value reductions are justified, he said.

The 13 business owners are each seeking reductions of more than $100,000, Becker said.

If the property owners receive a reduction in the assessed value of their property, then their property tax bills would be lower, reducing revenue for the college, he said.

The businesses include:

- Bloomer Amusement Company
- Drury Inn Inc.
- A.J. Nester, Trustee
- Lebanon Apartments
- John B. Gundlach
- Midwest Lodging Association
- Peabody Coal Corp.
- Chemical Waste Management
- Raymond Weier, et al
- American National Bank of Chicago
- Magna Trust — Venture Stores
- Magna Trust — Westfield Plaza
- Springfield Associates L.P.

In other business, the board appointed William S. Lyke of Belleville as assistant director of personnel at $32,000 a year.

Trustee Ted Farmer protested the appointment, saying that he knew of another candidate more qualified for the position.

Farmer said he asked one of the 80 applicants for the job to send him a copy of his resume so that Farmer could compare it with the Lyke's resume.

Board Chairman Robert Maxwell called Farmer's actions "completely improper for a board member."

Maxwell said that, if Farmer had questions or doubts about the application screening process, he should have taken his concerns to the Personnel Committee before the committee selected someone for the job.

"The college is lucky to get a man of Mr. Lyke's qualifications at that salary," said Trustee Mark Levy.

"Farmer's was the only 'No' vote."

Cable cost to be topic of meeting

"Are We Paying Too Much for Cable Television?" will be the topic for the Jan. 29 session of the Focus Series at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The program, "Update on Segregation in the St. Louis Metropolitan Area," originally scheduled on this date, has been rescheduled for Feb. 19.

Focus programs meet at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Mississippi-Illinois Rooms of the University Center. Presenter for the Jan. 29 session will be John Meisel, professor of economics at the university.

"Congress and the Federal Communications Commission are currently considering ways to facilitate competition in the provision of cable television service," Meisel said. "Increased regulation of cable and reduction of barriers to entry to the market are two options under consideration."

He said it is becoming increasingly apparent that eventually local telephone companies will be allowed to provide video services in competition with local cable television monopolists.

Sponsored by Lifetime Learning Activities at the university for senior citizens, the series explores topics of current interest.

Additional information on the Focus Series may be obtained by calling 692-3210.

Absentee deadline tough, Bowles says

Madison County is such an intricate jigsaw puzzle under the new legislative map that figuring out where the pieces go could threaten election deadlines.

"I really don't know if we can make it by Feb. 11," Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles said Jan. 14, referring to the start of absentee balloting.

Not only has the county been split into seven new Illinois House districts, but several precincts also have been split, increasing the difficulty for her office to code new voter cards for the March 17 primary election, Bowles said.

State Rep. Jim McPike, D-Alton, House majority leader, said a computer analysis by the House Democratic staff on Tuesday indicated that 19 precincts within his current district are now divided into more than one House district under the new map approved Jan. 10 by the Illinois Supreme Court.

McPike's current district includes Alton, Godfrey and Wood River Township. He said one of the split precincts was his own in Alton, with 10 residents now in the 97th District instead of the 111th. He said he apparently still lives in his own district.

Although detailed information on all split precincts in Madison County is unavailable, a GOP analysis listed 143 Alton residents in the 97th District, with the rest of the city in the 111th District.

The analysis also listed 385 Godfrey residents in the 111th and the rest in the 97th. It also listed six Wood River Township residents in the 110th District with the rest in the 111th.

Only the state's two largest counties, Cook and DuPage, would be split into more districts than Madison County, according to new details released on the Republican-drafted plan.

Several cities in Madison County, including Granite City, also fall into more than one House district. There will be four districts within the Quad City area of Mitchell, Pontoon Beach, Granite City, Madison and Venice.

The biggest difficulty in getting prepared for the election, particularly absentee balloting, is the split of precincts, Bowles said.

She said only "three or four" precincts in the county are currently split between legislative districts.

Identifying where voters live in terms of district and precinct will require going through all registration cards by hand, since the computer does not operate on less than a precinct level, Bowles said.

She and other county clerks probably won't even get interested information on the new legislative districts for about two more weeks, Jim Wilkins of the State Board of Elections said Jan. 14.

Bowles estimated it would then take her office at least 10 days to complete identification of voter locations before voting could start.

She said, "That would put us against the wall so tight we can't see."

Man wins in ear-biting incident

Floyd Clark, 33, of Granite City was awarded $63,000 judgment Nov. 8, 1989, and ment Nov. 18 for personal injuries.

The judgment against Paul Tinnon of Madison was reached in a bench trial before Circuit Judge Nicholas Byron.

Granite City attorney Andrew J. Miosky filed suit in Madison County Circuit Court for Clark, alleging that Tinnon was intoxicated on Nov. 8, 1989, and attacked Clark at Eddie's Lounge in Granite City.

Bowles estimated it would then take her office at least 10 days to complete identification of voter locations before voting could start.

An Illinois Dram Shop Law suit against J.W.D. Inc., owner of Eddie's Lounge, was settled out of court earlier.

Colorful

Embarrassment has turned to pride in the case of orthodontic devices used to straighten teeth — at least in the eyes of some young people who have begun using colors to brighten the looks of their braces. The colors come in the form of Alastik Ligatures, which hold the metal brace to the brackets on each tooth.

Election time

The 1992 presidential race is already drawing interest across the nation. But in Metro East an election eight months earlier promises to create excitement of its own. The March primary, jeopardized by a fight over legislative redistricting, features interesting races for a variety of posts. See the Journal and Press-Record for continuing coverage.

Hooks urges: Help fight to keep King dream alive

Lisa Nelson was four years old when Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. died, but she still holds onto his dream.

"Dr. King is the reason I keep going every day," said Nelson, 27, a senior at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Nelson's dream to teach poor children got a boost Tuesday from Benjamin Hooks, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

She looked up from her math book in the University Center lounge and was surprised to see Hooks standing in front of her.

He smiled, picked up Nelson's math paper and said: "Lisa, I'd give you an A, grade on this algebra problem."

Hooks, a friend of King's, spoke at SIUE's 10th annual celebration of the slain civil rights leader's birthday.

Hooks strolled through the University Center lounge shaking hands with students.

"I'm worried about the lack of interest of young black students in the civil rights movement in this country," Hooks said. "They don't want to get involved, and that's tragic."

Blacks and whites eat in the same restaurants because of the sacrifices of King, Hooks told black students in the center.

"Don't take those sacrifices for granted," he said. "I remember when I had to go to the back door of a white restaurant to buy a hot dog and then sit on the street curb to eat it."

Alonzo Davis, 24, an electrical engineering student, reached out to shake Hooks' hand.

Davis said young blacks do not get involved in civil rights because of a lack of leadership.

"We need someone to follow, to look up to," he said.

At King's birthday dinner, Hooks asked blacks and whites to work together to combat a rising number of hate groups such as the Ku Klux Klan.

Presidential aspirant David Duke and the Klan are trying to turn the country against King's vision, Hooks said. "They will never kill Dr. King's dream of equal rights for every citizen."

"Dr. King was a gentle man, a patriot. He loved his country and wanted every person to have the same opportunity."

Nelson said she would never forget her meeting with Hooks. "He brought back memories of Dr. King."

Nelson said she had pictures of King at her home in Alton. She also said that sometimes she listens to a tape of King's message, "I Have a Dream," delivered from the steps of the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C.

"I get goose pimples every time I hear it. It makes me believe that I can make a difference in the lives of the kids I'll be teaching someday."

Four decades of insurance

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

In his 44 years with State Farm Insurance, Ed Nichols of Granite City dealt with numerous types of insurance policies.

But as far as he's concerned, honesty was his best policy.

Nichols, now 73 years old, retired on Dec. 31 last cap off a career that spanned more than four decades and took twists and turns in all directions.

He first started in the insurance business in 1941, but it wasn't until 1947 that he linked up with State Farm as one of its local insurance agents.

Prior to his association with State Farm, Nichols worked at two other insurance companies.

Because of conflicts over business practices at those agencies, Nichols had to struggle before he succeeded.

He was first introduced to the insurance game when 22 years old. A premium collector had hauled in much more than he was supposed to and fled the country. The manager approached Nichols about taking a job there.

There was one hitch; the company couldn't hire anyone under age 21. But, through a little imagination and persuasion, Nichols found himself in the insurance business.

It got to the point where they were telling me I was 23 when I wasn't," he said. "Our older son was born that year, so I played along with it to have a job."

World War II changed plans as Nichols volunteered for the Merchant Marine and served until the war was over. He saw 17 countries in his travels and sailed through such major bodies of water as the Atlantic Ocean, Indian Ocean, Persian Gulf and Mediterranean Sea.

He didn't get a warm welcome home from his wife, but he did get a job at State Farm.

Senate candidates to debate

The three candidates for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination apparently will debate at least once before the March 17 primary.

"I realize you're already engaged in a strenuous debate with your own record, but it seems only fair to let your challengers participate," challenger Al Hofeld wrote in a letter delivered to incumbent Alan Dixon.

Spokesmen for all of the candidates — Dixon of Belleville and Hofeld and Carol Moseley Braun, both of Chicago — said at least one debate was likely.

But details remain to be worked out, said Alton Miller, director of communications for the Braun campaign.

Hofeld challenged Sen. Dixon to a series of eight debates in a letter hand-delivered to Dixon's Chicago campaign office.

Dixon spokesman Erin Kern said Dixon wanted to debate. "We've always maintained that we will debate and we look forward to debating," Kern said.

"All (Hofeld) wants to do is debate debates, but he does not want to debate the issues. He criticizes Dixon on health care, but he hasn't said what his position is."

Kern said she thought there would be at least one debate, but the number of debates is among matters being negotiated with potential sponsors.

Miller said Braun suggested in November that the candidates meet in a series of debates around the state, but there has been no reply from the other candidates.

THE VOICE BOX: Do you think Dan Quayle could beat the Democrats in a run for president?

By John Swistak Jr., T.L. Witt and Linda Schaefer

Beulah Davis, Granite City
"He wouldn't have a chance. He's a draft dodger. I don't like him."

Kent Wilbanks, Granite City
"My first reaction is he would not have a chance, but he is a sneaky guy."

John Echolls, Collinsville
"He won't do good. He is too young. He doesn't have the experience. You have to have it upstairs, he doesn't. Maybe it is just because I am a Democrat."

Virginia Kolassa, Collinsville
"As long as he is a Republican he will do a good job, and I will go for it. I have never seen one good thing the Democrats have done, and I am 70 years old."

Kimberle Sobol, Edwardsville
"I don't think Quayle would get elected. He doesn't have what it takes."

Bruce McNeese, East St. Louis
"Dan Quayle would have a better chance than George Bush. Bush isn't going to get elected because of the bad economy. That's a negative for Bush."

Agent

company; his wages were sliced dramatically. As a result, he quit.

It was then on to an insurance agency in Chicago. He was transferred to Cincinnati and then to St. Louis as a claims manager. An argument over a bill that he paid resulted in him leaving that job as well.

"I got into a rhabarb with a man who said I didn't pay on a debt when I actually did," he said. "I quit. The president of the company begged me to come back. But I didn't want to represent a company that wasn't honest. I didn't condone their practices at all."

Nichols decided to take a crack at working at a steel plant in Granite City. The experience of working at a furnace lasted all of two days. "I couldn't take that kind of heat, so I walked out," he said.

Roy Thebeau, who at the time was a State Farm agent, remembered Nichols and offered him a position.

He accepted and thus began his relationship with the Illinois-based insurance company.

Nichols was able to build a friendship with the founder of State Farm, George Meherle. Nichols recounted the history of the firm, which got its start in 1922.

As the story goes, Meherle inherited $100,000 and used a good educational background to set up an underwriting company solely for farmers, hence the name State Farm.

Friends of his thought he was crazy at first, but they eventually aided him and started the business. The first policy ever written by Meherle, according to Nichols, was written up on a brown paper bag.

Nichols' first office was his own living room, but the owner of Krill's Market leased a small area for $10 a month where Nichols did business.

He got his big break from then-bank president Henry D. Karandjef, who with a partner was going to buy the Southwestern Bell building downtown. They were looking for people to occupy office space there.

Karandjef offered Nichols two rooms with all of the modern conveniences for $75 a month; the room at Krill's didn't even have plumbing.

"I don't believe in doing something unless I can," Nichols said. "Seventy-five dollars a month was a lot of money. I couldn't do the impossible."

"He was trying to tell me something. I knew that he liked me and he wasn't going to tell me that straight out.

"My wheels started spinning and I decided that, if he'd trust me, I'd take it. When I told him, he acted like he was thrilled to death. I never regretted it."

As president of the bank, Karandjef told his loan officers to send insurance customers to Nichols. A steady stream of prospective insurance buyers started heading in and Nichols began to prosper.

"If it wasn't for him, I wouldn't be where I am today," Nichols said.

Nichols came full-circle in regard to the locations of his office. He started out in a home, moved to an office complex, and then back to his residence on Madison Avenue.

Through the years, Nichols has seen just about every type of insurance claim as well as all the changes that have taken place in the past four decades.

He said it is almost impossible to compare today's insurance policies with those when he began. The skyrocketing costs and the extensive background searches prior to giving insurance are two of the biggest changes.

Although the insurance business can be tedious at times, Nichols said, on some occasions he was faced with claims that were humorous.

His wife, Pauline, recounted a story that had to do with a man's new automobile and a vain bull.

"The funniest claim we've had was when a man took his new, black Studebaker into the countryside on a visit to some relatives," she said.

"A bull wandered out onto the road and saw his reflection on the car. That bull butted its head against that car until there was no more car left. That's an example of some of the claims we've had."

Up to the time of his retirement, he had policies that covered as many as four generations of families he has helped to insure.

He has accepted the idea of retirement and feels it is for the best.

Even though he put considerable time and effort into his job, Nichols had plenty of time to develop a variety of hobbies that he enjoys. From ham radio operating to woodworking to making jewelry out of rocks, Nichols has an extensive range of diversions.

In fact, he was just wrapping up a conversation with another ham operator in Chicago when a writer came calling on him.

"I've enjoyed it immensely," Nichols said of his radio hobby.

"It's a great pleasure when you make contacts and get cards from all over the world."

Nichols is a self-taught radio operator and got his license in 1962. He has built himself a large radio set that also includes a computer hook-up for added on-line communications. Nichols also spends time in front of a canvas doing oil paintings.

"I taught myself about the rocks and I worked and read to become a ham operator," he said. "I've done a lot of things on my own."

911 dispatcher training is set

The last scheduled training sessions for Madison County 911 dispatchers are set to begin the week of Feb. 24.

The classes will train about 25 Emergency Telephone System dispatchers, including five new Sheriff's Department dispatchers scheduled to begin work Jan. 27, according to 911 Coordinator David Whipple.

The dispatching system is scheduled to begin about April 1, Whipple said. It is being financed by a 65-cent monthly surcharge on telephone bills.

The training is offered by the Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission through Belleville Area College.

Other dispatchers who will handle 911 calls at points throughout the county already have been trained.

Tree recycling — Illinois Power employee Larry Bloomquist of Granite City runs a tree through a brush chipping machine Monday morning in Woodland Park in Collinsville. Illinois Power donated its services to chip Christmas trees collected by the Collinsville Area Recreation District. District Director Dick Dooley estimates the district will collect more than 1,000 trees by Sunday.

SIUE maintenance crew may be cut

SPRINGFIELD — Seven maintenance workers at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville could be out of work for three months under a budget-cutting plan.

The layoffs of craft union workers would save about $22,000, part of the $1.54 million in cuts school officials proposed to implement if Gov. Jim Edgar's request for 3 percent appropriation reductions is approved by lawmakers.

Specific cuts were outlined for lawmakers at appropriations committee hearings Jan. 14.

Other proposed cuts at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville include saving $450,000 by deferring replacement of instructional equipment, $330,000 by putting off a computer upgrade, $340,000 by curtailing maintenance of instructional labs, $98,000 by delaying replacement of administrative equipment and $96,000 by not filling the job of director of university relations.

SIUE President Earl Lazerson said he has also imposed a hiring freeze for the rest of the year.

He said the cuts were intended to avoid any impact on course offerings in the short run. But in the long run they will leave the university with greater maintenance needs and outmoded equipment, he said.

Alton Mental Health and Developmental Center is not expected to face any staff reductions as a result of the budget cuts.

Department of Mental Health spokesman Pat Alvarez said Alton will also be permitted to hire people for vacant jobs because of early retirements.

The facility will be cut 3 percent in non-personnel parts of its budget, including utilities, maintenance, food, supplies and travel, Alvarez said.

Oriental garden being created here

Spring this year will signal a new step in the upgrading of the gardens of Wilson Park.

The first step in the upgrade was taken in 1990 with the installation of new walkways. The second step was the renovation of Sieveking Gardens and a program to reforest Wilson Park by having Park District citizens contribute trees in remembrance of family members or to honor a special person.

Over 100 such contributions were made in 1991, and the program continues this year.

In the spring of 1992, renovation of the area known as the "sunken garden" will be undertaken. The sunken garden will be transformed into an Oriental-style garden. This area is located where the old swimming pool was, directly behind the present pool.

Announcement of this new garden area was made by Nancy Sanders-Miles, president of the Board of Park Commissioners.

At one time this area was developed and kept beautiful, but for numerous years it has been unattended. The style of this Oriental garden will give the new development its name — Tranquility.

It will feature dry streams, blooming trees and shrubs, evergreens, rock formations, and grasses, all of which are symbolic of a tranquil countryside.

As with the "Trees for Wilson Park" program, the public is invited to contribute toward the purchase of items needed to construct this garden.

An individual, groups and organizations are invited to choose from a list of specific items needed, and to have their choice planted or installed as a memorial for an individual, a member of a sponsoring group, the group itself or in the name of a member of the family.

The development of this garden area will also give school groups and other youth groups an opportunity to supply a part of the area and they will then identify this as "theirs."

The Board of Commissioners

sanctioned the start of this new garden area in 1991, and work on it began in the fall. Already, several persons and organizations have made contributions, and they are in the area now, along with commemorative identification.

A listing of items needed for this project is in the Wilson Park office, 2300 Benton St., Granite City. Anyone or any group interested in this program may go to the office, or call the office at 877-3059.

Bill Monical, groundskeeper, will return the call or set a time for getting together with the donor. If it is desired, he will give a personal tour of the area as the donor decides what his or her contribution will be.

Some of the items needed to bring this garden into being are:

groupings of shrubs, groups of large rocks, sand, cobblestones, plantings of grasses (decorative), bamboo, trees (new and some already planted), benches and many other items.

The cost of items needed begins at $60, which covers the cost of an item ($40) and the cost of the memorial plaque ($20).

Prices vary according to size, species or type of item chosen. All items placed in the garden must be approved by the Park District, and the district will also designate locations so as to maintain the concept and design.

A special day for recognizing those who make contributions, and for dedicating the Tranquility garden, will be held on the day following Arbor Day, Saturday, April 25.

Christmas in April

Realtors plan repair program

The Granite City Board of Realtors Inc. is striving to keep the spirit of Christmas alive in the Tri-Cities area. Board President Lucinda Schmidt said in announcing formation of "A Christmas in April" home maintenance program.

A Christmas in April Kickoff breakfast will be held Thursday, Jan. 23, at Charlie's First Season Restaurant. Area dignitaries, lenders, contractors, clergy, corporations and title companies are invited to attend.

Those interested in attending the breakfast or donating time, building materials or cash may call Rose Eckhard, board secretary and public relations chairman, at 452-3500.

"The board looked around the community and saw a problem that needed fixing: a growing number of their neighbors need help maintaining their homes," Schmidt said.

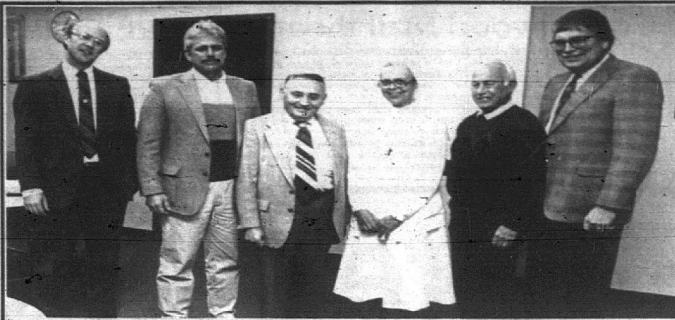

Schmidt said, "Low-income and handicapped people, elderly in particular, can no longer afford to have leaks repaired, defective wiring corrected, rotting steps replaced, etc."

The Granite City Board of Realtors has decided to do something about it. They reasoned that the old idea of a barn-raising could be revived and applied to the area.

The board is recruiting skilled and unskilled volunteers to donate labor, materials and monetary contributions.

"We are hoping for hundreds of volunteers from all walks of life to join together and bring the miracle of Christmas to our community," said Board Vice President and Committee Chairman Burel Schmisser.

"The more support and volunteers we get, the more homes we can help. We are shooting for a goal of one to three homes. We hope we can get it started and that it will spread."

SIUE homecoming set for Jan. 21-25

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville 1992 Homecoming events are scheduled Jan. 21-25, starting with an Activities Fair from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 21, on the first floor of the University Center.

As part of SIUE Spirit Day, Jan. 22, the Homecoming Rally will be introduced at a pep rally at noon in the Goshen Lounge of the University Center.

The Alumni Association's Continuing Education Series will offer a workshop on "Starting a Small Business" at 7 p.m. Jan. 22; and the film "Ricochet" will be shown at 8 p.m. at the Vandalia Center pool.

Games will be featured in Goshen Lounge from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 23, followed by a second screening of "Ricochet" at 7 p.m. in the Deja Vu Room of the U.C. and a Back to the Beach indoor beach party will take place at the Tower Lake Commons Building. "Spend a Night in Tropical Ecstasy," the 1992 Homecoming dance, will be presented from 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 24, to 1 a.m. and the Homecoming king and queen will be crowned at 11 p.m. Homecoming events culminate with basketball games against Quincy College on Saturday, Jan. 25. The women's game will be played at 5:35 p.m. and the men's game at 7:35 p.m.

Soil District annual dinner Feb. 7

The Madison County Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) will hold its 45th annual dinner meeting and election of directors on Friday, Feb. 7, at the Community Center in Hamel. Registration will begin at 6 p.m. A buffet-style dinner, served by Sandy's Catering at 6:30 p.m., will be followed by a business meeting, an election of directors and speakers.

Three directors will be elected to serve two-year terms. The three up for re-election are Gene Daiber, Irvin Helmer and Walter Bohn.

Those who would like to nominate someone for SWCD director are to contact one of the members of the nominating committee.

Tickets are $6.

Cottonwood Mall theater closed; replacement sought

The only cinema in the Edwardsville-Glen Carbon area has given a farewell performance, but a sequel may be planned. Cottonwood Cinemas closed its three-screen outlet in the Cottonwood Mall after the late show Jan. 16, but the mall's owner is trying to lure another theater chain.

"We are working with several people and they have expressed some interest," said Scott Stinson, asset manager for Leo Eisenberg Co., the mall owner.

"The (Carmike Theaters) chain made a business decision to close, period. There were no negotiations," said Stinson. "We asked if there was anything we could do and they said, 'No.'"

Gary Green, district manager for Carmike Theaters in Atlanta, Ga., declined to comment. The cinema manager could not be reached for comment.

Carmike Theaters, which operated the cinema since 1981, declined to renew its option on a 10-year lease at a higher rent, Stinson said. Renewals, he added, are typically subject to negotiations.

The closing, Stinson said, "had nothing to do with the landlord. We would have worked with anybody."

Local woman helping in fight against medical care cutbacks

A Lewis and Clark Community College student fighting medical care cutbacks is getting some help.

As Scott Osburn wades into the political stream, he is finding allies in his fight to restore the Aid for the Medically Indigent program.

"It really has started to spread," Osburn said. "He is planning a statewide petition drive to inform the Legislature about the need for this benefit."

His new allies include a Granite City woman whose AMI coverage was also cut and U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville.

During Costello's town meeting Monday in Wood River, Osburn decided to bring the state problem to Costello's attention.

"I wasn't sure if he could do anything, since he was from the federal government and it's a state issue, but he said it didn't make a difference," Osburn said.

Osburn and more than 500 Madison County residents lost their Medicaid benefits at helping low-income people pay for medical care. It was designed for people whose income qualified them for Medicaid but were ineligible because they did not satisfy other requirements.

Osburn, who has epilepsy, used the program to pay for his daily medication and frequent medical tests.

"Congressman Costello told me to write a letter and he would go to work on it," Osburn said.

Alberta Haynes of Granite City, who must take daily medication to control diabetes, contacted Osburn after reading about his fight.

"I'm hoping the state will reinstate AMI. There are too many people without medical cards that need them," Haynes said.

Haynes, like the rest of 22,000 people statewide cut off in budget cutbacks, must struggle to find money to purchase life-saving medication.

"The doctor just gave me a prescription for 100 tablets (for diabetes) and it cost $50.60. I don't have the money to pay for it, and I've had to borrow it," Haynes said.

Osburn is trying to establish a non-profit organization called AMI Now to help raise money for postage and travel expenses.

He can be reached by writing 8818 Godfrey Road, Godfrey, Ill. 62033.

reduction. Asked about the "notch babies," who receive reduced Social Security benefits based on their birthdates, Costello said the bill he sponsored to do away with the "notch" provision is still before the House.

"But I'll be honest, it will not pass because the American Association of Retired Persons" testified against removing the notch. And, even if the legislation to abolish AARP.

President (George) Bush has said he will veto it," Costello said.

"AARP represented themselves as the voice of all of its members, so I would suggest you write AARP and tell them how you feel."

Asked about trade, Costello said, "There is no such thing as free trade. There should be fair trade or no trade. It's that simple. But there is nothing free about trade."

Costello said he believes every American "should have the right to buy goods manufactured in Japan, Germany, Korea, Mexico or anywhere else," but said the citizens in those countries should have the same right to buy American goods.

The costs of manufacturing in America, he said, include having to pay a minimum wage, a prohibition of child labor, clean air requirements, other environmental restrictions, and other costs for the good of the people.

He said that, if other countries can produce things cheaper because they lack those restrictions, goods from those countries should be assessed what it would have cost to meet those standards before they are allowed in the United States.

Costello closed his meeting by stressing the importance of sharing ideas.

"If you have solutions or answers, tell me," Costello said. "We now know the solutions are out there."

"We spend 13 percent of our gross national product on health care, and have 30 million Americans with no coverage at all," he said. "The Germans spend 9 percent of their GNP and every one is covered, and as far as I know, pretty satisfied."

"We have a system where some people have Cadillac cars, and others don't even have a moped," Gephardt said.

"In Germany, everyone has a Chevrolet."

The three plans discussed by the panel were Medicare for all, which would cover all residents with Medicare-like benefits; "pay or play," in which all employers would either provide health care coverage for their employees or contribute 9 percent of their payroll to a public program; and "single-payer health care" which is similar to the Canadian system and would set up a federal agency that would pay all health care costs.

Mohr said organized labor favors a Canadian-style system.

"The Canadian plan takes care of everyone, from the cradle to the grave," he said. "It takes care of everything that you need. It may not be the best thing in the world, but it's sure better than what we have now."

But Dr. Wilkins said the Canadian system "ration's" health care. He said people needing elective surgery are put on a waiting list and may have to wait up to nine months.

"In England (where they have a similar system), when you're 55 you no longer get kidney dialysis, and I don't want to tell you what happens then," Wilkins said.

He issued a proclamation of its adherence to, and support of, King's ideals and principles.

The proclamation, which was submitted to New Salem Baptist Church in Madison, recognized Monday, Jan. 20, as honoring a black citizen and hero with the national holiday. The proclamation also expressed the board's goal of annually commemorating the day with activities and observances to teach students in District 12 of King's values, principles and ideals.

In personnel business, the board hired Marsha Sipos as a temporary hired school clerk.

"I learned a lot," Jodi Gibson of Collinsville said following the meeting. "Now I'm going to get more information on this, because it really is important."

Ed Clark of Collinsville said he came to listen "to see if any of the plans made any sense."

"At my age I need (health care), and it's just getting outrageous anymore," he said. "They're going to have to do something soon, for the middle class. We're the ones who are paying for it."

The area's loss of state Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, due to redistricting, was another strike against education, Kostiencki said.

"We got whacked again with the redistricting. Sam was always a friend to education, and we will feel a tremendous loss without him," he said.

In other business, the board unanimously adopted a policy prohibiting the possession of any telecommunication device, including beepers and cellular telephones, on District 12 school property.

Students who violate this policy will be subject to confiscation of the device, prosecution and suspension or expulsion from school.

The policy does not apply to people possessing beepers in official capacity, such as law enforcement personnel, firefighters, medical personnel or school officials.

some highway projects may be delayed but there will be little impact on construction.

Edgar had proposed reduction in grants in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program, but the agreement keeps the grants at current levels.

Also saved was a social program that provides home help for the low-income elderly.

The budget deal puts back $28 million of the $37 million threatened in general state aid cuts.

The agreement also prevents $5.5 million of the $17 million in special education cuts proposed earlier and restores $5.2 million of the $12 million textbook program.

However, about $60 million for other programs in elementary and high schools will still be slashed.

Money was also restored to a variety of other social services, including $433,000 for the Parents Too Soon program to reduce teen-age pregnancy, $4.5 million for nursing home care, $1.6 million for adult dental care, $2 million for community mental health agencies, $5.5 million for circuit breaker grants for the elderly and $1.5 million for homeless shelters.

Altogether, about $32 million of $77 million in cuts in welfare programs originally proposed by Edgar were avoided under the compromise.

Pilots president to speak at Parks College

Phil Boyer, president of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, will speak at 12:45 p.m. Friday, Jan. 24, at Parks College of St. Louis University in Cahokia.

His lecture will be given in the Kitty Hawk Student Center and is titled "The Future of General Aviation."

Boyer became president of the 300,000-member AOPA a year ago. A long-time broadcasting executive and general aviation advocate, Boyer is a 3,300-hour private pilot who has been flying for 25 years, 13 of those as an aircraft owner.

He is instrument and multi-engine rated, and his love of aviation has crossed over into his broadcasting career for many years. He is probably best known to pilots as the developer and publisher of ABC's Wide World of Flying, a quarterly subscription-based video magazine produced since 1987.

Prior to his selection as AOPA president, Boyer served as senior vice president of development for Capital Cities/ABC Video Enterprises Inc.

His responsibilities there included exploring new business opportunities in communications technologies as well as providing coordination for the international business divisions within the company. He was instrumental in establishing an ESPN cable TV channel in Japan, and was active in the formation of an all-sports cable channel in Europe.

Boyer has held the executive position of vice president and general manager at ABC's flareship station, WABC-TV in New York, and at WLS-TV in Chicago.

AFL-CIO backs Harrison for high court

Appellate Judge Moses Harrison has picked up another key endorsement in his bid to be the Democratic candidate for a vacancy on the Illinois Supreme Court.

The state AFL-CIO on Thursday put its weight behind Harrison, of Caseyville, over two primary election opponents for the high court vacancy created by the death of Justice Horace Calvo of Glen Carbon, formerly of Granite City.

The endorsement carries potential volunteers, campaign funding and clout with the many union members in the court's Fifth District. Harrison also has received endorsements from the Madison and St. Clair County Democratic central committees.

Harrison's opponents in the March 17 primary election are fellow Fifth District Appellate Judge Charles W. Chapman of Edwardsville and former Circuit Judge Carl Becker of Red Bud.

The AFL-CIO state convention Thursday also endorsed incumbent U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, over his two primary election opponents, lawyer Al Held of Chicago and Chicago Recorder of Deeds Carol Mosely Rector.

At a Jan. 9 hearing, Garrett got the testimony of two women who testified that Johnson was not present at the hearing, and yet his signature appeared on that sheet as the clerk.

Under the Election Code the two signatures are to be stricken.

A case precedent also holds that on any sheet where some signatures are invalidated, the entire sheet may be invalidated.

Garrett foe will stay on ballot

By Nicole Vaughn

Staff writer

Despite the invalidation of one of his petition sheets, Charles "Skip" Johnson will remain on the ballot for the high court vacancy in Madison County Board District 23, the county's Electoral Board has ruled.

Johnson's petitions were challenged Dec. 23 by incumbent County Board member Don Garrett, D-Madison.

At a Jan. 9 hearing, Garrett got the testimony of two women who testified that Johnson was not present at the hearing, and yet his signature appeared on that sheet as the clerk.

Under the Election Code the two signatures are to be stricken.

A case precedent also holds that on any sheet where some signatures are invalidated, the entire sheet may be invalidated.

The Electoral Board ruled Jan. 13 that all 20 signatures on the challenged petition be invalidated.

"However, because (Johnson) filed a petition consisting of six sheets totaling 13 signatures and 25 signatures are required for the office in question, the petition of (Johnson) was sufficient and his name shall appear on the ballot," the ruling read.

It's going on all over the world. It's very hard to control. It's very hush-hush," Jensen said.

Movies are being made; movies are being traded. It is a prevalent problem today in this country.

FAMILY

Cheerleading clinic Monday

The Granite City High School Cheerleading Organization will sponsor a cheerleading clinic on Monday, Jan. 20, at the high school annex.

The clinic will begin at 8 a.m. for those not pre-registered and 8:30 for those already registered. It will conclude at 3 p.m.

Participants will receive instruction in gymnastics, pyramid building, double stunts, sideline chants, cheerleading jumps and center cheers.

Everyone attending the clinic should bring a sack lunch. A drink will be provided by the cheerleaders. Bakery items will be available for purchase during lunch.

The cost of the clinic is $15 per person; however, additional children from the same family need only pay $10 each. The $15 clinic price includes a souvenir sweat-shirt.

Everyone attending must have a signed parent permission form and provide their own insurance.

Children attending the clinic must be at least 8 years old. All participants should wear shorts or warm-ups and tennis shoes, with no jewelry or gum chewing.

55-Alive driving course planned

The 55-Alive driving course will be available starting Monday, Jan. 27, in Granite City.

The program is designed to increase older drivers' concern for the normal age-related physical changes in vision, hearing and reaction time, as they affect driving and to increase awareness of appropriate techniques for driving in today's complex traffic patterns.

The course will be held at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College, 4950 Maryville Road, on Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 27 and 28, from 9 a.m.

to 1 p.m. in Room 316.

The cost per person is $8 for the two-day session and may be paid on the first day of class. Only persons 55 years of age and older are eligible.

Most insurance companies will allow a discount on insurance premiums for seniors who have taken this class.

For further information or to register for the class, seniors may call the BAC's Retired Senior Volunteer Program in Granite City at 931-0600 (ext. 646) between the hours of 9 a.m. and 12:45 p.m.

Council 1098 collects for needy

On Dec. 23 Council 1098 Knights of Columbus packaged 41 boxes of food for the needy.

The boxes were delivered to the needy by Council members in time for Christmas.

Also 11 fruit baskets were taken to the nursing homes and shut in members of Council 1098.

A Christmas party for the children was also held with Santa giving out gifts.

Jason Moerlien and the rest of the Warrior wrestlers face a busy week ahead.

Garland reserves judgment about undefeated wrestlers

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

Fact: The Warrior wrestling team is 13-0 in dual meets. The only "loss" came when Granite City finished second in the Springfield Tournament to New Lenox, Providence, which is ranked second nationally. Still, after Friday's 37-9 shutout of Wood River, coach Mike Garland is not ready to proclaim his team the area's best.

"All these things are good and well," said Garland. "But we're not No. 1 until we beat Cahokia and Belleville East in the regionals, win sectionals and go to state."

The Warriors led 21-6 against the Oilers before sweeping the last seven weight classes, all by pinfalls.

Garland switched the lineup around and bumped several of the lighter wrestlers up a class. He wanted to give some wrestlers an opportunity to wrestle heavier opponents.

Tin Fulkerson, a freshman wrestling in his first varsity match, got things started at 103 pounds. He dropped Paul Corrigan of the Oilers in 22 seconds for the quick pin of the match.

"He's off to a good start so far," said Garland. "We've got him for four years and hopefully he can keep that going."

"We're going to be young next year. We wanted to take a look

Lady Warriors survive bomb scare

Collinsville hits 14 treys, but GC wins 74-70 in overtime

By Brian Henry

The Lady Warriors won their fifth in a row Friday, but they did it the hard way, beating Collinsville 74-70 in overtime at Memorial Gymnasium.

Collinsville (10-7) went on a tear in the fourth quarter, outscoring the Lady Warriors 26-9 in the final eight minutes to tie the game at 67-67. Caryn Chasteen scored 12 in the final quarter to help lead her team back. Chasteen led all scorers with 30 points, including seven 3-pointers.

Karen Sykes, who led Granite City (10-5) with 23 points, scored five of the Lady Warriors' seven points in overtime to lead them to the win. Granite City moved a game ahead of Collinsville for third place in the Southwestern Conference. They are 3-2 in league play and the Lady Kahoks are 3-4.

The Lady Warriors featured a

"I thought we had a great all-around game," said Kuit. "We're starting to get a lot better now."

Granite City packed its zone inside. That cut off any guard penetration and dared the Lady Kahoks to shoot from outside. Collinsville didn't need much persuasion, connecting on 14 of 34 three-point opportunities.

Chasteen was 7 of 19 by herself. "The last time we played them (a 61-44 loss) they were able to send their guards inside," said Lobdell. "We were able to keep them from driving."

After falling behind 26-22 early in the second quarter, the Lady Warriors scored the next 10 points. A key point in the run was a technical foul called on

Razor-sharp Warriors cut down Flyers

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

There was a strange smell in the visitors' locker room on East St. Louis on Friday evening. But it didn't come from the Warriors.

Granite City emitted a sweet smell — probably its finest of the season. The Warriors improved to 2-2 in Southwestern Conference play and 9-5 overall with a thoroughly convincing 81-47 win over the East St. Louis Flyers. Drake Marshall scored 30 points and the Smith twins added 42 more.

"That's how we can play," said a very pleased Bill Ohlenford, who stepped outside the locker room to talk to get away from that strange odor. "There were only a couple of breakdowns all night. Everyone played the type-of-game he's capable of."

It was no contest from the beginning. The Flyers (2-3, 8-6) got the game's first basket, but that was their only lead. Marshall hit the first of his four 3-pointers for a 5-2 Warrior lead. It was 7-6 before the Warriors scored the last 12 points of the first quarter, and East St. Louis never threatened again.

"I hope it stays like this," said Jeff Smith, who scored 25 points on 11-of-14 shooting. "We've been hearing at school about how we've been playing, especially with how well the wrestling team and the girls basketball team is doing."

Warrior matmen right on schedule for huge season

You could see it coming two years ago.

The Warrior wrestling team was made up almost entirely of sophomores in 1990. Still, they managed a 14-8 dual meet record and sent six wrestlers to sectional competition. One of them, 169-pound sophomore Ryan King, made it to state.

It didn't take a genius to figure out that if reasonable progress was made by those sophomores that Granite City would be a powerhouse in 1992. By then all those talented but inexperienced sophomores would have turned into talented, battle-tested seniors.

They're right on schedule. Mike Garland's Warriors are unquestionably the area's best, and have to be rated among the state's best. They already have four 20-match winners (Pat Scheffer, Ryan King, Mark McKeehan and Al Willard) and could have as many as 12 before the season ends. There are only 13 weight classes.

The lone soft spot is 152 pounds. Garland has tried several wrestlers there with little success (6-13 overall). But no team is perfect, although this one appears to be as close as any.

Right now, it will appear the Warriors would have at least a decent chance of advancing at least to the sectional in the other 12 weight classes.

The regional will be in Cahokia on Feb. 8, with the individual sectional in Granite City on Feb. 14-15. From there, it's on to state Feb. 21-22 in Champaign. Garland took four wrestlers (Scheffer, King, Chris Hoffstet and Jerry Heuschman) north last year. He might need a bigger bus this time.

In team competition, the Warriors have to be a huge favorite now to unseat Cahokia. The Comanches have advanced to state each of the last five years. Granite City will face Cahokia in the final regular season bout Feb. 1, and that should give a good indication of how things will go in the regional final Feb. 11. From there, it's the sectional Feb. 25 against regional winners from Wood River, Centralia and Springfield, then the eight-team state meet Feb. 29 at Illinois State University.

Garland, 91-36-1 in dual meets after this year's 12-0 start, is not one to get overly excited. He's constantly preaching the fact that everyone knows about his team now, and they will be out to get the Warriors. Garland knows that what happens in December and January means nothing if it isn't carried over to February.

But if you think the Warriors haven't earned respect, listen to the words of Belleville East coach Norm Dahm after the Jan. 10 match:

"Who cares what the score was? I was so pleased with our team effort. It was like they won. In a way, they did."

That was after Dahm's Lancers had been beaten 42-20. When the opposition is claiming moral victory after a convincing decision like that, it's obvious how good this team is.

Traveling from Granite City to Belleville and back home on a Friday night, then getting the next morning and riding to St. Charles, Mo., for a long day of wrestling is tough. So all the Warriors could manage was a 60-point victory in the St. Charles Tournament. They placed no lower than third in 12 of the 13 weight classes.

Impressive.

I hate to put too much pressure on them, but all signs point to plenty of excitement in the next six weeks. Perhaps these guys — and not Rio Plator — are the REAL world champions.

9 Pin No Tap winners announced

Winners have been announced in the 9 Pin No Tap tournament held Dec. 28 at Granite Bowl.

Joe Byrd, 11, placed first in the Bantam/Prep Division. He is the son of Richard and Shirley Byrd. Second went to Maria Rody, 6, the daughter of Bruce and Brenda Rody. Third went to Erin Graham, 9, daughter of Aaron and Leslie Graham.

Placing first in the Major/Junior Division was Robert Brocksher, 15, the son of Robert and Margie Brocksher. Second was Chris Hildreth, 17, son of Gary and Bev Hildreth. Third went to Chris Rody, 14, son of Bruce and Brenda Rody. Each bowler got a plaque.

Dixie Price of Granite City will be recognized at the McKendree College women's basketball game Jan. 24.

Price is one of seven freshmen on the Lady Bearcat squad of first-year coach Ann DeBoe. Any resident of Granite City, with proper identification, will be admitted to the 7 p.m. game against Washington University free of charge.

The game will be played at the Melvin Price Convocation Center on the McKendree College campus in Lebanon.

Chastean after she didn't hand the ball to the official when he requested it. Sykes hit the second of two free throws to make 29-26 and the Lady Warriors went on to take a 40-28 lead at the intermission.

"They didn't put on their full-court press like they did last time," said Lady Warrior coach Allen Lobdell. "We were able to get the ball up the court and control the inside."

"I was afraid we'd be a little leg-weary after last night's game (a 68-44 loss to unbeaten Jerseyville)," said Collinsville coach Paul Harrington. "We were really flat in the first half."

Granite City held a 23-10 rebounding edge in the first half and outscored the Lady Hawks 43-25 for the game.

Slugging with a strong inside game, the Lady Warriors pounded their way to a 58-41 lead after three quarters and it appeared they would easily put it away.

But the Lady Hawks chipped away and Crnkovich calmly hit both two free throws with five seconds left to send the game to overtime.

But the Lady Warriors suffered for their fifth straight win in an undefeated January. "Obviously, this is a real big win in the conference," said Lobdell. "This wasn't a good, consistent effort. We still have some room to improve. We're not where we want to be yet."

at some things that will give us an idea of what we'll have next year."

Pat Scheffer, one of seven Warriors moved up a weight class, won by forfeit at 112. After T.J. Shay (119) lost a 6-7 decision, Ryan King (125) edged Brian Pryor 10-8 for a 15-3 lead. "The Oilers' Nick Milazzo (130) and Chuck Mellor (140) recorded victories sandwiched around a pinfall victory by the Warriors' Dan Hicks (135). The Mellor win was the last Wood River would have as Granite City took the last six matches.

To give an idea of how much the Warriors dominated, none of the last six bouts lasted more

But the Warriors didn't have to take a backseat to any team Friday — not from their school or any other. They shot 55 percent from the field.

"Three of our four days of practice this week were very good," said Ohlendorf. "I kind of thought we had turned the corner even in the game against West (a 69-64 overtime loss last Friday). The thing is it's a long season. There's plenty of time to correct some things."

Ohlendorf kept his starters in a long time Friday. He wanted to keep them sharp for another conference game Saturday against Alton. They were sharp the whole way.

"It's just been a matter of execution," said Jeff Smith. "I guess the time off after Christmas worked out good for us."

The Warriors are 3-1 in the new year and have racked up two easy wins in a row. Cahokia and East St. Louis aren't bad teams, but Granite City has beaten them by a combined 61 points.

"I'm a little surprised with East St. Louis," said Ohlendorf. "They just didn't respond tonight. But I didn't feel they really played all that hard against Collinsville when I saw them, either."

"We had heard they were struggling with their rebounding," Jeff Smith said. "We probably should have had more rebounds than we did (a 26-23 edge)."

Flyer guard Fernando Stevenson was 0 for 8 from the field and didn't score. Corey Cole led East Side with 16 points, but most of them came well after the game had been decided. Granite City's biggest lead was 76-38. All the starters finally came out with 1:38 left and Les than 1:32. Chris Hoffstot (145), Jerry (452) and Jeff (189) Heubachman, Scott Simon (160), Andy Richards (171) and Al Willard (275) notched pinfalls. Hoffstot and Jerry Heubachman both reached the 30-win plateau, giving Granite City six wrestlers with 20 wins so far.

Garland said this week should be a good endurance test for the Warriors. They wrestle in quad meets Thursday at Parkway West, Friday at Hazelwood Central, and Saturday at Jerseyville.

Nunes led the bench brigade with five points, including a 3-pointer.

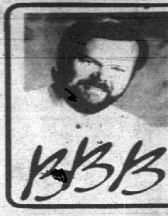

"Michael Dochwat played one of his smartest games," said Ohlendorf. "Brian Smith (17 points) keeps coming on. Drake is shooting very well and Jeff continues to give us his normal good game. John Cozair played hard and smart. It works when all your starters are doing the job."

Granite City's biggest lead was 76-38. All the starters finally came out with 1:38 left and Les

"Bowling is a Perfect Game At GRANITE BOWL"

WAYNE REUTER

"I've bowled on a lot of different lanes. You won't find a better place to bowl than Granite Bowl. The maintenance is good, so you experience very few breakdowns. The competition is excellent and the attitude of both the bowlers and management makes bowling more enjoyable."

Wayne has bowled for about six years and despite a two year layoff because of a bad back has his average back up to 198. He has a couple of 289 games to his credit. Wayne is employed by Trans American Trailer Repair in St. Louis.

Seniors' 'Line Dance' class is reactivated

Maxine Duniphan covers the Mitchell area for the Press-Record Journal. She can be contacted at 831-2714.

Members of the Chouteau Township Senior Citizens have reactivated their "Line Dance" classes following their Christmas hiatus.

The group meets on Thursday evening two to three times a month. They practice several Line Dance routines as well as some Hula Dance moves. The seniors all agree that aside from the social benefits of dancing, dancing also provides an enjoyable form of exercise.

Jeri Schieb of Mueller Avenue was the hostess for the area's Bunko Club meeting on Jan. 9. The meeting was the first for the group since members took their annual Christmas break.

The hostess served a special cake in honor of member Barbara Fulmer's birthday. Present besides the hostess and the birthday honoree were Dorothy Castle, Norma Bennett, July Homola, Karen Orr, Mary

Maxine Duniphan

McKinnon and special guest, Mary's daughter, Peggy McKinnon. Peggy was here from Charlotte, N.C., visiting relatives. She is employed by the U.S. Airlines in Charlotte.

Dorothy Castle will be the hostess for the club's February meeting.

Several musicians and their families met at the Chouteau Township Social Center for a pre-Christmas Jamboree on Dec. 7.

The guests included members from several area music groups and represented many musical talents.

Everyone enjoyed a pot-luck dinner, music and dancing.

Delores Scott of West Chain of Rocks Road is home from Christian Northeast Hospital, "recovering beautifully," she says, from foot surgery.

The Rev. Bo Schultz assumed his duties as the new pastor of Faith Chapel General Baptist Church on Sunday, Jan. 12. The Rev. Schultz is a dynamic speaker with a positive attitude. He and his wife Frances and their three children, George, James and Jennifer, make their home in Madison.

Faith Chapel is located at the corner of Ashland and Springfield avenues. Everyone is welcome. Doors open at 9 a.m. Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. and Sunday morning worship service at 10:15 a.m. Sunday and Wednesday evening services begin at 6 p.m. for the duration of Daylight Savings Time. With the time change in the spring, meeting time will return to 7 p.m.

John Lithgow, left, and Aidan Quinn portray fundamentalist missionaries who are threatened by Indians outside a mission station in "At Play in the Fields of the Lord."

Amazon drama is poignant film

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

Although it has a basic plot structure, director Hector Babenco's panoramic and lush drama "At Play in the Fields of the Lord" offers a poignant and melodramatic story.

Set in the beleaguered Amazon rain forest of South America, "At Play in the Fields of the Lord" has a large, well-known and talented cast that presents a morality play on the subject of cultural and ethical rights amid Brazil's aggressive development policies.

Set in the fictitious, rundown Amazon River town of Mae de Deus, the film stars Tom Berenger as Lewis Moon, an aviator who also is a mercenary, and Tom Waits, who plays Moon's port-Cheyenne friend, Wolf.

Moon and Wolf land their plane on a small wilderness airstrip after running low on fuel. They are detained by local officials who want the pair to scare off some native Indians who siting on a valuable vein of gold.

Wolf and Moon are soon joined by a husband and wife team of fundamentalist missionaries, Martin and Hazel Quarrier, played by Aidan Quinn and Kathy Bates. Rounding out of their element are John Lithgow and Daryl Hannah as Leslie and Andy Heuben, a pair of fervent proselytizers.

It's an unlikely group, to be sure. As the leisurely tale unfolds, Moon decides to become a member of the Indian tribe he is supposed to be scaring. In addition, conflict develops between the Quarriers and the rigid, doctrinaire Leslie Heuben.

Meanwhile, the Indians find themselves and their culture threatened by progress, civilization and religion.

"At Play in the Fields of the Lord" allows cast members to develop their roles in a steady, elaborative fashion, which is partially responsible for this film's almost three-hour running time.

The result is a thorough and meaningful effort, a motion picture that puts together perfectly the threat to the natural serenity and beauty of its setting by the ugly, unnatural hostilities of the outsiders.

Ratings reflect radio station changes

By Ian MacBryde
Correspondent

The recently completed fall Arbitron ratings of the St. Louis radio market indicate that a couple of stations may have turned their slipping fortunes around. Certainly, executives at KEZZ-FM (102) and WKQB-FM (106) are breathing a little easier because of the new numbers, which cover the Sept. 19 through Dec. 18 period.

KEZZ, second in overall ratings a year ago with a 7.9 share among listeners aged 12 and over, clocked in with a 4.4 rating—good for eighth in the market. But the good news for the station was that the number represents a 25.7 percent increase above its summer ratings.

KEZZ took a terrible ratings beating after it was announced in January 1991 that the station changed its format from "easy-listening" to a more upbeat "soft rock." The station now may have found its audience.

KEZZ also finished eighth among listeners aged 25 to 54, an important age category for advertisers. That represents a 36.8 percent increase above the summer ratings.

Ironically, the program director who engineered the change in format was not around when the bleeding finally stopped. Steve Jankowski left the station during the fall ratings period.

If my ear is any judge, KEZZ is continuing to tinker with its format. The sound seems to be a little more mellow each week. Last month, Bob Burch, the station's operations manager who also is acting as program director, said the station would be "making adjustments."

Executives at WKQB also must have been delighted to see the new ratings. The station experienced a huge drop in measured audience level between spring and summer. The station is seventh in place overall and moved to ninth from 12th among adults aged 25 to 54 on the strength of a 48.5 percent increase.

Perched on top of the ratings is perennial leader KMOX-AM (1120), which may have received a boost from increased interest in the St. Louis Blues. The station's audience rating of 17.1 among listeners aged 12 and older is up half a point from last fall.

The stations ratings were up 25 percent among male listeners aged 18 to 34. These may be the same people who are calling sports-talk shows to call for the head of St. Louis Blues coach Brian Sutter, since the team is not meeting what apparently are increased expectations.

The KMOX numbers are down from the summer rating period (11.9 percent), but that seems to be a function of the baseball season.

Rock station KSHE-FM (96) is second in ratings among listeners aged 12 and older and those aged 18 to 34, although the numbers are down somewhat.

Elsewhere in morning drive time, some significant changes might reflect the departure from KSD of personality J.C. Corcoran. You will recall that the controversial Corcoran, who probably offended everyone in the market at one time or another, left the station early this fall, apparently after a conflict with management.

The station's numbers for the morning drive time—Corcoran time—showed an overall drop of 10 percent among listeners aged 25 to 54. That consisted of a 32 percent decrease in male listeners, but a 41 percent increase in female listeners.

The ratings for stations, among listeners aged 12 and over, were: (1) KMOX 17.1; (2) KSHE 8.8; (3) KMMJ-FM (108) 7.4; (4) WL 6.7; (5) KYKY-FM (96) 6.2; (6) KSD 5.9; (7) WKQB 5.0; (8) KEZZ 4.4; (9) KLOU-FM (103) 3.4; (10) WKXX-FM (104) 2.6.
